

NexTek COVID-19 Update

March 25, 2020

COVID19 update from NexTek.

NexTek operations remain at substantially full capacity through this health emergency. We have staff working from home as much as possible, but also retain full manufacturing capacity. Our Sales and Engineering operations remain available to assist you.

As an essential business that serves multiple U.S. Government and Military Industrial Base customers, NexTek will continue to stay open and maintain operations at a level that is close to normal. We are taking the necessary precautions to protect and support our workforce throughout this difficult time.

We have adequate inventory, and our supply chains are intact, although some additional lead time might be required for (new orders of) a few products. If you have large volume needs, unique products designed for your application, or time critical delivery requirements, please contact NexTek with your forecast. We can make a detailed delivery estimates for your needs.

As the situation develops, NexTek will continue to keep Clients, Customers, and Suppliers up-to-date.

We hope everyone stays safe throughout this event.

Thanks,

The NexTek, Inc Team
